A BANISHED TRAITOR

A Hawaiian Revolutionist Coming This Way.

SHARP WORDS IN THE HAWAIIAN HOUSE.

The London Police Will Probably Be Able to Clear Up the Mystery of the Hampstead Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 27.—The steamship Zealandia arrived this morning from Sydney and Honolulu, bringing advices that the new missionary schooner Robert W. Logan, Captain Worth, arrived at Hilo, October 11th. The brig Consuelo, which left the islands for San Francisco, October 14th, had on board Albert Loomens, convicted of treason by the Supreme Court of Hawaii for taking part in the revolution of July 30, 1889, and sentenced to death. The Privy Council commuted his sentence to one year's imprisonment at hard labor, to be followed by banishment from the country.

During the discussion of the majority and minority reports on postal matters in the House October 13th, a warm debate arose over a motion to refer the investigation of the charges against the Postal Bureau to a select committee. Representative Wilcox favored the motion and said he was surprised to see members of the National Reform party, who boasted loudly before election of what they would do in the House, stand up to defend the reform officials. "If this thing continues," he said, "there will be a new government before the year ends, and there will be no king, and I will take a hand in the business." Wilcox used other language of a personal nature, for which he was called to order. He made a retraction, and, the discussion closing, the motion to refer to a select committee was lost.

Eldress Phoebe, of St. Andrew's Priory, who came to the islands in 1867, died October 11th of pneumonia, in the 68th year of her age. The King and Queen and prominent residents attended her funeral.

The United States steamers Charleston and Iroquois, H. M. S. Acorn and the Japanese training ship Tsukubia are at Honolulu. H. M. S. Nymphe and the United States steamer Mohican are expected to arrive shortly.

DENVER TO SALT LAKE.

A New and Shorter Railroad Line Projected.

CHICAGO, October 27.—A morning paper says: James McLean, President of the Colorado, Utah, and Pacific Railroad, has arranged with the Manhattan Trust Company to get financial aid in building a new road from Denver to Salt Lake City. The projected road will run from Denver to Boulder and cross the continent at the divide at Buchanan's Pass, running through Middle Park, thence to Steamboat Springs and over Goose Range to Green River, Provo and Salt Lake. The length of road from Denver to Salt Lake will be 446 miles, which is 286 miles shorter than the Denver and Rio Grande. The Colorado, Utah and Pacific claims to have about $20,000,000 back of it.

There will be a tunnel 3000 feet long on the projected line just before Middle Park is reached. The tunnel will go through a high mountain and will be an expensive piece of engineering work.

JEALOUSY THE CAUSE.

The Hampstead Murder Mystery Clearing Up.

LONDON, October 27.—It is probable the police will succeed in clearing away the mystery surrounding the murder of Mrs. Hogg, whose body was found on Friday night at South Hampstead. Mrs. Nellie Piercy, whom Mrs. Hogg visited on Friday, and whose house revealed traces of a desperate struggle, and who was consequently arrested, was arraigned in the Police Court today on a preliminary hearing. The husband of the murdered woman testified that a liaison existed between himself and the prisoner. He had a latch key to her house, and frequently visited her. He thought his wife did not know of his relations with Mrs. Piercey. Further examination of the kitchen at the Piercey residence reveals that a fierce struggle had taken place there, and that attempts had been made to remove the blood stains on floor and about the room by the use of paraffine.

A Cut in the Rate to San Francisco.

CHICAGO, October 27.—The Journal says there is unmistakable evidence that both the Burlington and Santa Fe roads have blocks of tickets on sale in St. Louis and Kansas city at a $2 cut on the regular rate to San Francisco.

The Czar and the President.

ST. PETERSBURG, October 27.—The Gazette states that Carnot, President of France, will visit this city in May, when he will open an exhibition of French products to be held here.

A Grand Army Appointment.

BOSTON, October 27.—Commander-in-Chief Veazey of the Grand Army of the Republic, announces the appointment of William Lochren of Minneapolis, Judge Advocate-General.

A Buffalo Failure.

BUFFALO, N. Y., October 27.—Clark & Partridge, proprietors of the Queen City Planing Mill, made an assignment, with preferences aggregating $100,000.

HORRIBLE IF TRUE.

A Man Accused of Breaking a Cow's Ribs and Cutting Her Tail Off.

It is seldom that a report of cruelty to animals shows such brutality as that reported today to Secretary Theobald of the Humane Society. In this case a man named O'Day, who lives at the corner of Twenty-fourth street and New Broadway, is the owner of a band of cattle. The statement laid before the Secretary is that while he was driving them home one refused to follow and ran away. O'Day caught the cow and tugged at a rope attached to a ring through her nose until he pulled it out, tearing the nose open. Then he kicked the cow with a boot to which was attached a spur, until he broke three of the animal's ribs. As the cow demurred to this treatment he deliberately hacked away at her tail with a pocket knife until he severed the member from her body. People on the street who saw the cruel treatment the cow was subjected to threatened to arrest O'Day, and compelled him to desist. The matter was reported to Secretary Theobald who had O'Day arrested this afternoon for cruelty to animals.

Now Comes Wallace.

Emil Wallace was this morning arrested for witnessing the dog fight last week. He was taken before Justice Snook, where he pleaded not guilty, and on depositing $25 security was released.

HE CHARGES LIBEL.

Pattison, of Pennsylvania, Denies He Was Bribed.

KEMMLER'S GHOST APPEARS IN COURT.

Murat Halstead Sells a Part of His Interest in the Cincinnati "Commercial-Gazette."

PHILADELPHIA, October 27.—Robert E. Pattison, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, swore out warrants of arrest, this morning, in proceedings for criminal libel against the publisher and editor of the Inquirer, the proprietor of the North American, and the publisher and editor of the Harrisburg Call. A hearing will be given this afternoon. The three papers mentioned published on Saturday morning charges that Pattison was bribed by the Vanderbilts to sign what is known as the South Pennsylvania bills of 1883, and that the Governor sought out and retained ex-Judge Jeremiah S. Black to write a veto message, and having received it with the understanding that it was to be sent to the Legislature, he changed his mind by next morning and without notice to Judge Black, and that Judge Black denounced Governor Pattison for this alleged deception and severed all amicable relations with him. The article also charged that $3000 in stock had been paid Governor Pattison and Attorney General Lewis S. Cassidy for the signing of a bill chartering the Pittsburg Natural Gas Corporation.

ELECTRICAL EXECUTION

Under Consideration in the National Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, October 27.—The first motion to secure final action from the Supreme Court of the United States on the question of the constitutionality of the New York Electrical Execution law was made in the Supreme Court today. It was moved that the case be advanced and set for a speedy hearing. The point raised is that the Kmemler execution demonstrated that killing by electricity was a cruel and unusual punishment and as such prohibited by the constitution of the United States. After counsel made the motion, Chief Justice Fuller asked "is there any distinction between that case and the case of Kemmler?" Daniel O. Callahan the counsel who made the motion responded, "Yes sir, this distinction, that carrying out the sentence in the Kemmler case was not scientifically successful and the petitioner hopes that electricity will be decided not to be a proper model." The Chief Justice,—"We will take the papers."

MURAT HALSTEAD

Sells Part of his Interest in the Cincinnati "Commercial-Gazette."

CINCINNATI, October 27.—It is announced upon reliable authority, that Murat Halstead, who owned a controlling interest in the Commercial-Gazette, has sold to a broker a portion of his holdings. Whether the sale is coupled with a contract to give the purchasers control by proxy of his remaining shares so as to give them unrestricted control of the paper is not known, but it is probable that the sale settles it that Halstead will remain in the East until the names of the purchasers from the broker are made known. There is much speculation on that point. General Alger and General J. S. Clarkson have been guessed at by some as the men. The transfer of stock and re-organization, if any, will be done within thirty days.

THE NORTHWEST GARRISON.

Brigadier-General Gibbons Reports on its Condition.

Recommendations Concerning Courts Martial—About Desertions and Enlistments.

WASHINGTON, October 27.—The Secretary of War has received the annual report of Brigadier-General Gibbons, commanding the Department of the Columbia. He reports that the Indians of the extreme north are perfectly peaceful, and he thinks they will remain so indefinitely, "unless goaded to desperation by the constant encroachments of the whites and their acts of injustice." He says, in regard to courts martial: "The supposed irregularities in court martial proceedings have recently given rise to a good Idea of comment throughout the country, and a proposition has been made to take from the department commanders the power to order general courts and rest it only in division commanders. I am of the opinion that this would be a great mistake. It would not be in furtherance of the administration of justice, and would simply add one more to the disadvantages of the present division organization." He recommends, however, certain improvements in the administration of military justice as follows: To authorize the Secretary by law to establish a schedule of punishments for certain well-defined offenses, for which the courts should confer sentences; by requiring strict compliance with the law in convening general courts by establishing a military court of appeal whose duties should be similar to the corresponding civil courts. General Gibbons reports the troops in his department in good condition as regards dicipline and drill and gives it as his opinion that the various measures taken to decrease the number of desertions in the army will result beneficially. "No steps," he says, "will produce better results than the plan to get better material by enlisting recruits in the rural districts rather than in crowded cities." He reports the canteens in his department in a satisfactory condition, and says the system is not only better than that of tradership but the enlisted men are beginning to realize some of its benefits. He recommends that the War Department charter a seaworthy vessel for the transportation of stores across the mouth of the Columbia River and Baker's Bay, as was done until recently, when the contract for that service was disapproved. Since the stoppage of the steamer, the garrison at Fort Canby has been cut off from ordinary table supplies.

A WELCOME TO STANFORD.

The Meeting to Be Held This Evening at the Oakland Theater.

The Senator and Thomas Fitch to Hold Hold a Reception, and Then to Address the Citizens.

Everything is in readiness for the great reception to Senator Stanford, at the Oakland Theater, this evening. The great auditorium has been handsomely decorated, Thomas K. Fitch, the silver-tongued orator, is in splendid voice and will make the speech of the campaign; and from the amount of interest evident wherever people are talking politics, the theater will not begin to hold the crowd.

There will be a brief and informal reception in the Crellin hotel parlors before the meeting and Senator Stanford will meet his friends, and make the acquaintance of the people generally. The Alliance will turn out and act as escort to Senator Stanford, conducting him from the hotel to the theater, with a short street parade. There will be music, bonfires and fireworks along the line of march.

At the theater M. C. Chapman will preside, and about 150 prominent citizens have been asked to take seats on the platform and act as Vice-Presidents. The Alliance will have at least 100 men in line, and seats have been reserved for them in the theater. The boxes have been spoken for by well known people and a great many ladies will be present. All in all, it will be the largest and most enthusiastic meeting held in Alameda county during the campaign.

The Army and Navy Republican League will turn out tonight with the Alliance. They will meet at the Crellin and escort Senator Stanford from there to the theater.

THE VICE-PRESIDENTS.

SIX THOUSAND.

The Vote In the Contest For Popularity.

HENSHAW, HUSSEY AND CRANE AHEAD.

The Ladies Voting Solidly For Rev. C. H. Loomis.

The Little Verses and the Naive Letters of the Admirers of the Several Candidates.

More than mere ephemeral interest is taken by the public in THE TRIBUNE candidate contest. There is a genuine contest to determine the popularity of certain citizens. The ballot box attests this with its thousands of votes daily pouring in, and still further evidence is the mass of letters, commenting, rhyming and sometimes joking, that come by each mail to the vote counter. Despite the warning that has been given of the danger of holding votes back, it is known that dozens, and in some instances scores, of ballots are in reserve in different places, to be dumped with a rush toward the close of the contest, and the present indications are that at the windup there will be a close race among the leading candidates for honors.

It is rather disrcoraging, after all that has been said on the subject, to receive such a letter as the following, which came to hand on the first mail today:

I have not as yet seen any announcement in your paper as to the time when the candidate contest is to close. Do you reserve the right on any day to vote as many tickets as you choose and then declare the contest closed?

I have cast some votes in that contest, but I do not think, and I have not seen any one who does think, the contest is to be a fair one. I suppose that at the close, or toward the close, THE TRIBUNE will utilize its types and paper and cast all ballots that may be necessary to give its favorite candidates large majorities. I shall be pleased to discover that I am (if I am) mistaken.

SUBSCRIBER.

For the benefit of the correspondent, and any others who may have disregarded the previous notices, it is therefore again announced that the contest will close at noon on Monday, November 3d, and the result will be announced in that evening's TRIBUNE, so that the people can know the night before election day whom the voice of the masses has pronounced the favorites. As for "Subscriber's" fears that THE TRIBUNE will, at the close of the contest, use its types to run off a lot of blank ballots for its favorites, it should be needless to say that they are without foundation. THE TRIBUNE does not intend to resort to any such unfair, or any means at all to influence the contest. The balloting is to be left strictly with the people, and it means what it says. The paper itself takes no hand in the contest, except to furnish the blank ballots for others to fill, and to award valuable prizes to the winners. Those who are lucky enough to secure the GOLD SOUVENIR BADGES will get them because of the verdict of the people alone.

The letters received today pertaining to the contest were in the usual interesting strain. One voter discusses the outlook by saying:

Understand sent in a few votes heretofore straight Democratic, but have changed from Sheriff to Hussey, because McCleverty jumped in as a dark horse, thinking there might be a fighting chance to get elected (but the Democrats are going to fool him). Leckie is my man, because Frank Moffitt has been trying his utmost to outdo him.

HERETOFORE DEMOCRAT, NOW INDEPENDENT.

And this is what an anonymous correspondent would like to hear sung:

CAMPAIGN SONG.

Air, Upidee.

The votes were falling thick and fast,
Hip Hip Rah, Hip Hip Rah.
As up salt River lines ut passed,
Hip Hip Rah, Hip Rah.
Together with Pond and young Del Valle,
And a crowd of toughs from Salmon Alley.
Chorus.

Hip Hip Rah, Hip Rah, Hip Rah, Hip Hip Rah,
Hip Hip Rah, Hip Hip Rah, Hip Rah, Hip Rah,
Hip Hip Rah, Hip Rah.

Hackett cried out in distress,
Hip Hip Rah, Hip Hip Rah.
Who's to blame for all this mess?
Hip Hip Rah, Hip Rah.
Pond replied wild with fear,
Boys we'll have to anchor here.
Chorus.

The snags appeared on every side,
Hip Hip Rah, Hip Hip Rah;
They could not even stem the tide,
Hip Hip Rah, Hip Rah;
To lighten their load they threw out Dam—
Said he would not do as a lamb.
Chorus.

Just then a steamer hove in sight,
Hip Hip Rah, Hip Hip Rah,
Decked with flags and bunting bright,
Hip Hip Rah, Hip Rah;
Her name could be seen, near and far,
In golden letters, Cal-i-for-nia.
Chorus.

The glorious news THE TRIBUNE gave,
Hip Hip Rah, Hip Hip Rah,
While another paper did curse and rave,
Hip Hip Rah, Hip Rah,
Because not one of its men it saw
On board of the Cal-i-for-nia.

A letter, written on the composite novel plan, said:

In exercising our privilege as citizens of the manor born, we propose to add economy with the glorious right, by sending our four votes in the single envelope. Respectfully yours,

FOUR BONA FIDE VOTERS.

And in a very wandering handwriting came:

One would think that "Honest Old Gib"
Was duly made from Adam's rib,
To handle hot chestnuts he is a catspaw
For the grand old Democracy, who'll elect Henshaw.

While on his face there's not a frown,
His brain is callous from sitting down,
But in Alameda, where all's serene,
I will not be Gib, but I will be Greene.

SANCHO PANZA.

ALAMEDA, October 25, 1890.

A "Leckie Democrat" turned up again, writing:

Thanks to THE TRIBUNE, I have discovered a great and good man. When, in my letter, last week, I said that I had heard that the Reverend Charles Loomis ran a soda water fountain in Alameda, I said it with all honesty of thought. I was told that he did so—told that, by a peculiar foamy method of topping off the drinks, he could make a gallon of soda-water last longer than any other man in the business. But I find I am mistaken. The only connection the Reverend Mr. Loomis has with soda fountains is that he is a large consumer of their refreshing draughts. From all I can hear of him he would make a splendid Assessor. His brain would be filled with ideas of reform, and the noble example he would set to the heads of the other departments would I am sure, end in the Courthouse being transformed into a temperance headquarters. What a great event that would be in the history of Alameda county, and I will cast my vote for him to bring it about. Let the watchword be "Loomis, Light, Liberty and Lemonade."

THE VOTE.

The Supervising Committee found another full ballot-box when, at 11:30 today, they began to count the votes that had accumulated since Saturday at noon. A total of 1230 had been turned in, and proved to be distributed as follows:

THE CERTIFICATE.

For Superior Judge—

Henshaw	194
Greene	59
Gibson	65
Rosborough	21
For Sheriff—
Hussey	274
McCleverty	50
Hayes	6
For County Clerk—
Crane	153
Dam	144
Wilkinson	2
For County Assessor—
Loomis	159
Leckie	121
Hackett	52

The undersigned certify the above to be a correct total of the votes cast to noon today.

A. D. THOMSON,
CHAS. D. PIERCE.

October 27, 1890.

The Total Vote.

This now makes the total vote as follows:

For Superior Court Judge—

Henshaw	591
Gibson	451
Greene	362
Rosborough	223
For Sheriff—
Hussey	841
McCleverty	482
Hayes	179
For County Clerk—
Crane	757
Dam	562
Wilkinson	124
For Assessor—
Rev. C. H. Loomis	645
Leckie	497
Hackett	412

Grand total of votes cast to date, 6093.

Some of the balloters had expressed their opinions in the brief space afforded on the voting forms, one remarking appropriately: "Crane is a bird." Another was for "Honest Old Gib" for Judge, and "Honest Young Leckie" for Assessor, while two saying "We want honor," had plumped for Greene. In spite of Mr. McMullan's protest another vote was recorded for him for County Clerk and E. H. Hamilton the favorite of the Anti-Prohibition league, was again endorsed for Sheriff. The heavy vote again polled for Loomis shows how popular he is with the ladies, the majority of the ballots evidently being written by ladies. They will have to work hard, though, to keep their candidate in the lead when the battle gets fierce at the close of the week.

DEADLY FLAMES

A Lady Fatally Burned by Accident.

AN AWFUL SCENE IN A VACANT LOT.

The Violent Death of Mrs Smith, Sister of Mrs. A. D. Starr.

Her Garments Ignited From Coal Oil When She Was Alone—A Man's Gallant Attempt to Save Life.

Horrible injuries were received at the residence of A. D. Starr, 1353 Grove street, just before o'clock this morning, by Mrs. Smith, er of Mrs. Starr, and the lady is likely to lose her life. Deadly coal oil is responsible for the distressing injury.

At the time mentioned a solicitor for the house of Potter, Bishop, and Co., by the name of Moore, was driving along Eighteenth street and was startled at seeing Mrs. Smith running through a vacant lot with her clothes blazing furiously.

The lady was enveloped in flames and her piercing shrieks soon attracted a number of neighbors. Mr Moore scaled the fence and managed to throw a spread over the lady but it was inflammable material and burned immediately. Blankets were procured and the fire was put out by wrapping them around Mrs. Smith.

Every stitch of clothing had been burned from the suffering lady's body. She was carried into the house and the physicians who were summoned at once declared that a fatal result was probable.

No part of Mrs. Smith's body was unburned. In some places the burned flesh dropped off in pieces. About the head she was terribly burned. All her hair was burned off and her mouth showed that she must have inhaled some of the flame, for it was horribly inflamed.

The doctors went hard to work with their remedies, trying to save the lady's life.

Mr. Moore, who so gallantly went to the lady's rescue, had three fingers of his right hand burned to the bone, and his moustache and hair were singed.

It is hard to say how the fire occurred, for nobody saw it save Mrs. Smith, and she, of course, is not capable of making any explanation. A TRIBUNE reporter made investigations, showing that a can of coal oil was responsible.

In a shed adjoining the barn was found charred remnants of a burned newspaper, while beside the ashes stood a gallon coal oil can, almost empty. The can was covered with soot, showing that the oil must have burned, and a burned place on the ground showed where the blazing oil had fallen. Either Mrs. Smith had tried to start a fire in the shed for some purpose or else she found a fire blazing there.

The oil, burning, must have communicated the flame to her clothes, and considerable oil must have fallen on the garments, for they burned furiously.

From the shed a door leads out into the vacant lot, and through this that the frenzied lady ran.

At 11 o'clock the doctors had relieved the woman's sufferings somewhat, but she is by no means out of danger.

As soon as the distressing event occurred messengers were sent to Mrs. A. D. Starr, who is away from home, and to the office of Mr. Starr in San Francisco, notifying him of it.

A. D. Starr, at whose house his sister-in-law, Mrs. Smith, was staying, is the President of the corporation known as Starr & Co., owners of the great flouring mills at South Vallejo and Newport.

A Fatal Result.

Mrs. Smith died of her burns at five minutes after two o'clock this afternoon. She was attended up to her death by Doctors F. L. Adams and Rogers.

STUMP TO WILSON.

Concerning the Alleged Letter of Col. Markham.

Irwin C. Stump, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, has written an open letter to Russell J. Wilson, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, in which the whole matter of the "Markham letter" forgery is disposed of. Mr. Stump says:

You have had a letter—which you knew Mr. Markham had pronounced a forgery—in your possession for some weeks. You knew during all that time that I could have been seen any hour in the day and the letter submitted to me. You also knew that Mr. Markham was in the city on two different occasions after the letter was in your possession, and yet you have had thousands of copies of this same letter, which you knew Mr. Markham and this committee had declared a forged and fraudulent document, and, after scattering them broadcast over this State, you make a newspaper showing of a desire to submit the same to me and to Mr. Markham. Is this honest politics?

This same document that you have issued which contains this false and fraudulent letter, contains also what you allege is the finding of the court in a certain case of Hallock, Congar, and others against Markham, in which you say that "the court gave judgment in favor of Hallock against Mr. Markham for $100 and costs."

Why did you omit the following clause: "and it is further ordered, adjudged and decreed that the plaintiffs, O. H. Congar, John Goldsworth and John W. Potts, administrators of the estate of William Clancy, deceased, take nothing by this action, and that as to them, to-wit: Said Congar, Goldsworthy and Potts, administrators, the defendant to have and recover his costs herein taxed at the sum of $16.60. Done in open court this 24th day of October, A. D. 1888. H. K. S. O'Melveny, Judge Superior Court."

LOST A LEG.

Harry Kolman of Alameda Injured In East Oakland.

Harry Kolman, aged 16 years, a resident of 1896 Railroad avenue, Alameda, ran down the steps at the East Oakland station at 11:30 o'clock this morning, and directly in front of the cowcatcher of the engine of a local train that was drawing into the station. Before the cars could be stopped Kolman's right foot and leg were so badly crushed that at the Receiving Hospital, whither he was at once taken, amputation was found necessary. The operation was performed by Drs. Dunn and Legler.

Pay Your Taxes.

The clerks in the City Treasurer's office have finished making out the city tax bills, and taxes are now due. It should be remembered that they become delinquent on December 25th.

Taxes Are Now Due.

County Clerk and Auditor Crane this morning turned over the assessment rolls to County Tax Collector Barber. State and county taxes are now due and payable.

Another Hot Day.

The thermometer registered 80 degrees in the shade today just after noon.

FOR TEMPERANCE.

Young Women Give an Entertainment at Prohibition Headquarters.

Last Saturday evening the Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union gave a pleasant entertainment at Prohibition Headquarters. A quintette of young ladies rendered a pretty song. Miss Lou Heall gave a reading from "Sweet Cicely." Miss Merriam rendered well a vocal solo. Miss Gertie Kimball pleased all by her piano solo. Mrs. Van Pelt, President of the Oakland Woman's Christian Temperance Union, made a good address to the young women. Mr. Cornell recited a laughable selection, "How We Hunted the Mouse." Miss Darrows gave a reading from "Samantha Allen's Lecture to Josiah." The Y chorus rendered a parting song.

Before closing the evening's exercises, it was announced that Mrs. Emily Pitt-Stevens will give an address at the same place tonight, before the Sons of Temperance.

"OLD SLEUTH."

E. W. Bok Digs Him Up in Brooklyn.

A PEN PORTRAIT OF THE MAN AS HE IS.

A Forgotten Literary Grave—An American Literary Pantheon—A Popular English Artist.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

NEW YORK, October 20th.

I often see a stout, well-dressed, well-groomed man walking leisurely along Brooklyn's streets. "I'll warrant that he's a well-to-do banker," said a friend to me one day. I said nothing, for but few knew the old man and fewer still his profession. He does not look like the proverbial author but he is a writer, and his pen is gold-tipped, too. His name is Halsey—Harlan P. Halsey, and he is the author of the famous, hair-splitting, sensational "Old Sleuth" stories, and many others, that, while they might not be considered classic, have nevertheless, put him so far above the rest of scribbling humanity that he is now, even in a large and wealthy city like Brooklyn, considered to be a rich man. He is stout and good-natured, dresses with good taste and elegance, and has about him a solid air of contentment. He is a strong reminder of the fact that it is not the great names in literature that always draw the capital prize. Mr. Halsey is now in his 50th year, but they set very light upon him. For twenty-five years he has been an indefatigable writer, his great power lying in the direction of detective stories. Among a certain class of readers his stories command a tremendous sale, so that he has been able to dictate his own terms to his publishers. This, together with some profitable real estate investments, have made him a wealthy man. He lives in a fine residence on a fashionable Brooklyn street with his wife and daughter, a beautiful and finely-educated young girl of about seventeen. He is a member of two of Brooklyn's most fashionable and exclusive clubs. He is an agreeable conversationalist and excellent company. Mr. Halsey has been a member of the Brooklyn School Board for over six years, and is one of the most painstaking and honored members. His literary method is a sort of combination of those of Balzac, Charles Reade and Anthony Trollope. He is an assiduous reader of the newspapers, from which he frequently takes his plots and incidents, and he is very methodical in his hours of writing. This he does in the morning, and under no circumstances can he be had to write for ten minutes after his regular time for stopping. His afternoons and evenings are spent in recreation.

A FORGOTTEN LITERARY GRAVE.

Literary fame seems very hollow and short lived at times. I thought of this as last week I stood at the grave of Seba Smith, the once famous "Major Jack Downing." Forty years ago and he was the most noted political satirist of his day. What he wrote was quoted everywhere, and at great dinners he was the wittiest guest. Abraham Lincoln was his warm friend, and so were Presidents Jackson, Buchanan and Johnson. His intense hatred of political shams and his keen and facile pen made his name renowned. Longfellow was his classmate; William Pitt Fessenden, the "incorruptible statesman," his college chum; Epes Sargent, "the dreamer," his friend. When his volume of "letters" entitled "Way Down East; or, Portraitures of Yankee Life," appeared, it not only immediately attracted national attention but Artemus Ward declared him to be the American humorist. He had imitators everywhere. His book sold like wildfire. Everybody knew his name. And now? Away back of the quaint and ancient village of Patchogue (Long Island), N. Y., a few miles from "The Willows," the homestead wherein he so hospitably entertained his many distinguished friends—there, in the abandoned, yet picturesque Willow cemetery, is his grave, forgotten, neglected and visited by not one person in a year. It is a lonely bed, indeed, where "Major Jack Downing, of the Downingville Militia," awaits the resurrection. His resting place is surrounded on every side by tangled forest growths and to the right of it is a pond laden with fragrant water lilies. No one scarcely knows that forsaken grave. Rich clusters of golden rod blossom wildly on the mound under which the New England genius so peacefully rests. Behind it is a dense strip of woodland, and the place of sepulture is reached by a long and unfrequented lane—a most romantic entrance to the graveyard. On a moss-blurred and lichen-covered tombstone of modest proportions is chiselled: "He was well beloved!" Well beloved, and yet forgotten in twenty-two years, for he passed away at Patchogue in July, 1868, in the seventy-seventh year of his age, loved by young and old. The humorist's widow, Elizabeth Oakes-Smith, who wrote "The Sinless Child," which was pronounced an exceedingly beautiful poem by Bryant, Emerson and Poe, still survives her famous husband, living in an inland North Carolina hamlet, hale, hearty and still handsome at 85, the oldest living American woman writer.

AN AMERICAN LITERARY PANTHEON.

It is just such instances as these which now and then give rise to the question: Why should not America have a literary pantheon? Objections, and plausible ones, can doubtless be raised against such an idea, yet it seems as if some natural provision could be made for the care and better preservation of many of our literary graves. Men and women who furnish the literary thought for a nation and mould its intellectual bent certainly deserve a better tribute to their services than that their graves should not even be given decent care. An author, as a rule, leaves but little behind him to his family, and what he does leave is needed for the living of the survivors. The families of many of our dead writers cannot afford proper recognition of the deceased, or by distance, care is impossible. It is here that the government should step in, not in the light of charity, but in recognition of merit and good services. With proper restrictions and wise management, a literary pantheon might not be such an impracticable thing—for the future dead, if not for the past.

"BUT YET A WOMAN."

I do not believe in the writings of Miss Laura Jean Libbey, and were her books to die at their birth I think it would be a benefit to the young womanhood of America. Notwithstanding I was glad to learn of an incident a few days ago from good authority, which demonstrated to me that behind this author of questionable good, is a woman of true womanly instincts. Not long ago Miss Libbey received a letter from a convict in a New York prison. He had in some manner managed to have it mailed outside the prison walls. It was an appeal that the authoress should look into his case, claiming that he had been thrown into prison unjustly and under peculiar circumstances. The authoress, accustomed to receiving letters of a pleading nature, paid only slight attention to the convict's epistle. In a month came another, followed in two weeks by still a third. This last was so pitiful that the heart of the authoress was melted, and she placed the matter into the hands of a lawyer for investigation. A thorough inquiry was made, and the lawyer ascertained that the convict was not only entirely innocent of the crime laid at his door, but another man also implicated was equally guiltless. The case was still further sifted, but only more conclusive evidence of innocence was discovered. Then Miss Libbey took up the case, went to Albany and there she is now, or was last week, pleading with Governor Hill to pardon the two men. Whether she will be successful, or has succeeded, I do not know. I merely give the facts because I believe they should be printed to the credit of the authoress.

A POPULAR ENGLISH ARTIST.

There is, probably, no more popular man among the literati of London than Alma Tadema, the famous Dutch painter. Tadema is the friend of every English author, and a larger number of famous Briton writers come together under his roof than in any house in London, I think. He has a host of friends, and is the possessor of more "fads" than any man in the kingdom. Tadema is a picturesque figure in his own beautiful house, even among the rich tapestries, the old furniture, and the valuable paintings that go to make up his retreat. He wears a Leghorn hat while at work, smokes incessantly, and even gossips with a friend or two. He gives delightful little teas in his studio, and his musicales are the talk of musical London. His studio is reached by a flight of golden stairs, that is, the steps are entirely covered with plates of polished brass, which shine like gold. If you are fortunate enough to be admitted to his studio, you can see for yourself his celebrated piano with its keys inlaid with ivory and mother-of-pearl, and its lid lined with parchments, on which are written the names of the great musicians who have ever played on it or sung to its accompaniment. Tadema goes out a great deal. He is not only a first nighter, but he is a welcome guest at the clubs, in the drawing-rooms of the swells, and in the less elaborate parlors of the novelists and writers for the press.

LITERARY WORLD GOSSIP.

Sarah Orne Jewett is one of those authors upon whom Dame Fortune loves to smile. Her last book of New England stories has been translated into the French and published in Paris. "Betty Leicester" goes into its seventeenth edition this week, and a new volume of her stories, under the title, "Strangers and Wayfarers," comes out in a fortnight. And with all this Miss Jewitt has more work promised than she can almost fulfil.

I saw a complete set of figures of the sales of Mrs. Mary J. Holmes's novels the other day, and was astonished to find that royalty returns have been made to the author on 1,400,000 copies of her books. Of this figure 70,000 represented this year's sales.

The time has come for the annual crop of new periodicals. The Knickerbocker is the name of a new monthly to come from New York, with Flavel Scott Mines as editor, while Vermont is also to add one to the list of purely literary magazines. Its title is to be Literature and Art, and will be edited by Mr. C. H. Howard, one of the librarians of the Astor Library in New York.

Amelia E. Barr's "Friend Olivia," which ran in The Century, is said to be one of the fiction successes in the English market.

Anna Katharine Green's "Behind Closed Doors" has reached Australia, where it is just starting as "a new serial, fresh from the pen of one of the world's greatest authors."

Richard Mansfield, the actor, is to enter the literary field with a collection of songs written by himself to be brought out in book form.

George Eliot's "Romola," with a wealth of photogravures and etchings, will be one of the principal center table holiday books this year.

Joaquin Miller has settled down to literary work again, and says he is turning the atmosphere of his room into "a current of rampant wind with flying copy." Perhaps American literature has not a more unique figure today than Joaquin Miller—versatile, yet so eccentric!

A SEPARATE CONGREGATION.

The Market Street Congregational Church Is Now Independent.

At the morning service of the First Congregational Church yesterday the Market Street Church, which has been maintained by the First Church, bade farewell to the parent organization and became an entirely independent congregation. The Rev. J. K. McLean preached an appropriate sermon on "The Church, Which Is His Body," from First Ephesians, 21, 23. Dr. McLean reviewed the history of the Market street church and predicted for it a great growth in numbers and influence, addressed words of encouragement and cheer to the Rev. George H. Merrill, its pastor, and bade it an affectionate farewell. To this the Rev. Mr. Merrill feelingly and fittingly responded.

This is the third church which the First Church has fostered and established, and it will soon begin the establishment of another Mission, which in time will grow into another church.

THE ASSISTANT PASTOR.

The Rev. Stephen G. Emerson Ordained at the First Congregational Church.

The Rev. Stephen G. Emerson was ordained as assistant pastor to Dr. J. K. McLean at the First Congregational Church last evening. The Rev. Dr. Warren, Superintendent of Home Missions, presided. The Rev. E. C. Oakley of the Plymouth Avenue Church preached from the text: "I am Among You as One That Serveth." The ordination prayer was made by the Rev. George Mooar, and the Rev. Mr. Rice of the Second Congregational Church extended the right hand of fellowship. The charge to the candidate by the Rev. E. S. Williams of the Congregational Union was the closing address of the evening, after which there was singing and a prayer by Dr. McLean.

A Medicine Trust.

The retail druggists have decided that they will stop cutting the price of patent and other medicines. This rate war was carried on so bitterly that patent medicines were sold at cost. The druggists, therefore met on Saturday, and formed a Druggists' Association, and prices have been restored to the old rates.

Gratifying.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasant liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Company.

MR. CAMPBELL'S

INDEPENDENT CANDIDACY.

EDITOR TRIBUNE: Will you kindly permit me, through the medium of your columns to say a word to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity concerning my independent candidacy for the office of County Superintendent of Schools. I shall appreciate your courtesy the more highly from the fact that my candidacy seems not to be fully understood by some of my friends; and because, moreover, the impression seems quite industriously to have been given currency, that in it there are some ulterior designs—among these on the one hand, it is mysteriously hinted that it is for the purpose of defeating the gentleman named on the Democratic ticket, in the interest of the Republican nominee; and on the other hand, that it is for the defeat of the gentleman named on the Republican ticket, in the interest of the Democratic nominee.

Now let me assure you and your readers that nothing could possibly be further from the truth, or could possibly do me greater injustice. The educational positions which I have occupied, and the rank and standing in my profession, local, State and National, which I have earned by long years of devoted and faithful service here in your midst and as the head of the State educational system, should make it unnecessary, it would seem, for me to deny that I could be induced by any possibility to enact the role of "cat's paw" to pull anybody's political or educational chestnuts out of the fire.

To put it as concisely as may be, my candidacy is simply an appeal from the dictum of a local ring of political bosses direct to the voters of Alameda county.

It is possible for me thus to go directly to the court of final adjudication without doing violence to any of the unwritten laws or traditions of political ethics, for the reason that I refused to submit my candidacy to their machine and programme convention.

It is the same ring which punished me two years ago for the "crime" of exercising within the party lines my right of choice as to nominations to be made.

And let me say right here, that one of the strongest inducements to my independent candidacy was the suggestion by large numbers of my friends that I should thus afford the people an opportunity to express themselves concerning the act by which I was "evicted" to gratify the revenge of political bosses, in face of the will of the people as expressed by an overwhelming majority.

It is the ring which has followed me with such persistence as to make it impossible for me to go before a convention of my party for nomination to an educational position—the only one for which I would be a candidate under any circumstances; because, outside of my special line of life work, I have no political aspirations.

I do not propose to lay down my work here, or to move elsewhere, at such dictation; and my present candidacy is simply a submission of the question to my fellow citizens, whom I have served so long, whether it is their wish that I should do so. Is there anything wrong about that? I recognize quite fully the difficulty attending a canvass with one's name upon no party ticket, with the aid and backing of no committee, with no newspapers to speak for him, with no paid workers at the polls, and in view of the objection which many people have to ever scratching their party ticket. If I do not mistake the temper of the people this time, however, there will be scratching "no end." I believe, from the encouragement received by me personally, and by my friends, that I shall be elected. A very different view this from the one expressed in my presence on the street by a very prominent Republican politician a few nights ago, viz.: That I had no more chance of success "than a cat in hades without claws." Now, I may be in a very warm situation; but fortunately for me and unfortunately for the figure of speech, I have claws. My friend, you don't know us yet. There will be lots and lots of scratching again this year.

I have entered upon this canvass with due consideration, and shall be prepared gracefully to accept the result, if it shall be adverse to me, because it will be the decision of the people and not ipse dixit of a boss. If on the other hand it shall result in my selection, the special mark of favor and confidence, which, under all the circumstances, would thus be manifested, would place upon me a two-fold obligation to redeem the pledge which I hereby record, to devote, if successful, my every energy and thought to the proper discharge of the duties of the office, and in all things to merit a continuation of the esteem and confidence of my fellow citizens which would thus be shown me.

COUNTY CLERK CRANE.

Great Work Done During His First Week in Office.

County Clerk and Auditor James E Crane made a fine record for himself during his first week in office. He has familiarized himself with every detail of his office, which in itself was no easy task. When Mr. Crane was appointed by the Board of Supervisors a week ago last Friday he received two blank bonds at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, one for $50,000 his bond as County Clerk, and another for $40,000, his bond as County Auditor. At 7:30 o'clock on the evening of the same day he presented both bonds to the Superior Court Judges for their approval. In less than four hours Mr. Crane secured bonds in the sum of $90,000 At 11 o'clock last Saturday morning the new official entered upon the duties of his office, and found he had no small amount of neglected work to keep up. The assessment rolls have been footed and are now completed, and were turned over to the Tax Collector today. This was a most important duty. The minutes of the Board of Supervisors have been written up, and were read to the Board of Supervisors this morning. So by a week of good hard work Mr. Crane has succeded in getting the Clerk's office in good running order.

The Bargion Rail.

OAKLAND, October 29, 1890.

William Allberger, Esq., Chief Engineer Santa Fe Railroad Company—DEAR SIR: More than a year ago you gave it as your opinion that the Bargion compound railroad rail, when practically tested, would prove so greatly superior to the T rail in its elements of economy and safety as to compel its general adoption. I hope, therefore, you will find the time to examine the rail on the south track of the Southern Pacific Company on Seventh street, between Adeline and Center, where it was laid last April, and see how completely your judgment has been confirmed.

This test has proven beyond all successful contradiction that at the weakest point in all railroad tracks, namely, the joint, the Bargion rail is a great many times as strong as the T rail, that its cost of maintenance cannot possibly exceed 25 per cent of that of the T rail. Then the dissimilarity of material in the upper and lower parts make it almost impossible for the two parts to be broken at the same time and place, thus eliminating all accidents caused by broken rails. Its smoothness at the joints does away with the fearful wear and tear to which the rolling stock is now subjected, increasing both the safety and pleasure of travel by rail. But you know all this, and perhaps told it to me. Well, I have remembered it at all events. All that time your opinion sustained the rail—now the rail by its successful tests sustains you. And I am glad of it.

If you will kindly let me know when you can come over I will open a bottle of wine to the engineer who dared to materialize his opinion and look upon it.

Yours truly,
M. W. KENNEDY.

CLAN MACDONALD.

A Beneficiary Organization Formed by Sons of Scotland.

A lodge of the Scottish Clans was organized at St. Andrew's Society rooms, Oakland, Saturday evening, with a charter membership of 33. Among those present were descendants of the famous Clan Campbell, Clan Macgregor, Clan Mackenzie, Clan Macdonald, Clan Hamilton, Clan Fraser, Cal Colquhoun (Calhoun), Clan Stuart, Clan Macpherson and others. The name of the new lodge or clan was chosen as Clan Macdonald and the Glencoe tartan as the badge. Mr. Macdonald of Glencoe was the chairman and will undoubtedly be the Chieftain. Several members of Clan Fraser of San Francisco, among them Hugh Fraser, the Chieftain, were present at the organization of the new clan. The officers will be elected and installed at the next meeting. The order is confined to Scotchmen, their sons and grandsons, or sons and grandsons of Scotch mothers. It pays sick benefits and has a death beneficiary system for the payment of $500, $1000 or $2000 to the heirs or devisees of a member, raised by assessment. The assessments are graded according to age of members. It was started about twelve years ago, and has now about 1600 members, a great gain having been made in the past three years.

A series of "bats" will be a prominent feature of next month's programme.

A Question of Popularity

Berkeley Herald.

THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE has started a candidate contest which is exciting much interest in political circles, the object being to determine who are the most popular candidates for the offices of Superior Court Judges, Sheriff, Clerk and Assessor. It is a question of popularity rather than political preferment, so all can participate. Let not, therefore, only voters respond, but every man, woman and child in this county. THE TRIBUNE will continue the publication until the 3d of November. A handsome gold badge, to be known as "The Tribune Souvenir Badge" will be given to each of the candidates for whom the greatest number of votes is polled. It will be a glorious victory for the successful ones to know, whether triumphant or not in the elections of the following day, they are dearest in the hearts of the people. All who wish to vote will get the ballots in the TRIBUNE.

Tells the Most Popular.

Alameda Encinal.

THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE is trying to find out, by a vote of the people—men and women, of all political proclivities—who are the most popular candidates for Superior Judges, County Clerk, Sheriff, and Assessor, and with this end it view it prints blank ballots in its daily issues, to be cut out and voted at Kirkland & Trowbridge's drug store. The votes are counted every day, and the result announced in THE TRIBUNE. This tally will hardly tell who will be elected, but it may designate who of the candidates named on the different party tickets are the most popular with the masses.

Growing Exciting.

Haywards Journal.

The Oakland Tribune is bound to create a heated excitement before the election takes place with its candidates' contest. It is already growing exciting, and will equal in interest the celebrated badge contest of the Examiner.

Frankie White's Divorce.

The Supreme Court has affirmed the judgment of the lower court, granting the defendant a divorce in the case of George E. White vs. Frankie White.

The plaintiff is a wealthy rancher and stock grower of Mendocino County and brought an action for divorce on the grounds of adultery and willful desertion. An answer and a cross-complaint were filed by the wife, in which she denied the charges made against her and alleged adultery, willful desertion and extreme cruelty against the husband.

The husband appealed from the judgment in favor of the wife with the result as stated.

The Late Charles E. Davis.

The funeral services over the body of the late Charles E. Davis were held yesterday at Masonic Temple by Oakland Lodge of Masons, of which deceased was a member. The pall-bearers were W. M. Concannon, S. J. Taylor, Asa French G. W. Hewes, A. S. Baker, and George St. Pierre.

The clerks in the office of the County Clerk sent a handsome floral piece to the funeral of their deceased associate. Attached to the floral piece was a card bearing the names of County Clerk Crane and Deputy Clerks J. A. Dieves, W. J. Fallon, George Parker, Frank Krauth, Charles Neil, Ed. Le Fort, E. Meyrisch, J. Dallas, Robert Edgar, George Sturtevant, Charles Overacker, L. H. Schoenan, Samuel Hunter and George Striker.

A Course of Entertainments.

An effort is being made to secure the celebrated "Star Entertainment Course" in this city for the present season. It includes ten attractions, among them Joseph Cook; Frank Beard, the great Chautauqua humorist caricaturist; the Swedish Quartette; the Hild-Park and Webber Concert Companies; George Wendling, the celebrated orator; and other equally brilliant entertainments. Rev. Mr. Dewing, formerly of this city, now secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association at Fresno, is in charge of the course, representing the Slayton Lyceum Bureau. Already about 200 course tickets, at $3 each, have been subscribed for, and the prospect is good for securing the course.

The Expressman Has Gone.

About a week ago a young expressman named Maddox, in the employ of the Whitney Standard and Oakland Transfer Company, battered a salvationist in the barracks of the Salvation Army, and a warrant was issued for his arrest, but the police cannot find him, as he has departed for the interior of the State. The express company discharged him when the officers learned of his trouble.
